The dark place

When I understood what I did it all seem so clear.

I meet you and I faced my darkest fear.

It turned my life into something grey, fruit of sins some might say.

I hurt a person's heart and mind, the devil was present and he left me with only loneliness to find.

Why do humans always give after for lust, that only leaves us with no trust?

I took a trip to the evil side; it was too much of a painful ride.

Never will I go back to that dark place; I will face my fears in a brighter place.
